Hugh Cairns was born in Ashington on 4 December 1896. He went to Bothal School before his family emigrated to Saskatoon, Canada in 1911. Hugh and two of his brothers (Albert & Henry) enlisted in the Canadian Expeditionary Force in 1915. Only Henry survived the war.

Hugh was sent to France and was awarded both the Victoria Cross and Distinguished Conduct Medal, Britain's two highest awards for bravery. He died on 2 November 1918 from the wounds received winning his Victoria Cross.

Inseparable brothers

Hugh and Albert Cairns were described as inseparable brothers. Albert was killed on 10 September 1918 during the battle of Cambrai. Hugh was determined to avenge his brother's death and this may help explain his heroics in November 1918.

Hugh's love of football

Hugh was a keen footballer and his team won the Saskatoon League Championship shortly before he enlisted in 1915.

The Saskatoon Football Memorial is topped by a statue of Hugh Cairns and lists the 75 Saskatoon footballers who were killed in the First World War.
